had come to us all, and in a very special way to you, dear General. I am myself in some trouble and distress about the things that are coming down on everything—culture, morals, Christianity even—and when the distress comes on me like a mighty enemy, then I think of you, dear General, and of all the extra burden of distress to them, and my thoughts and prayers are for you. This morning, while speaking to the young people, I was praying for our dear Army, recruiting itself in every nation, the gladdening thought came to me that the very fact of its internationalism was the fact of its being a beautiful mission in this way if every Salvationist could keep and show forth an international spirit, the Spirit of Christ, and work for the redemption of the world, looking at it as his mission to do so.

FROM THE FRONT

CAPTAIN SHAW, WHO IS ON ACTIVE SERVICE, WRITES TO THE CHIEF SECRETARY.

(32094) Gunner R. Shaw, R.F.A., 4th Division Ammunition Column, Active Service.

September 10th.

Colonel Gaskin.
Dear Colonel—Just a line to let you know I am still alive. You will see by my address I am at the front, but at present not in the firing line. We are standing by for orders. Captain Marsh and myself are still together. We have been very fortunate to come together all the way. Still, we continue to ask for your prayers; we need them. Then again we're not getting meetings, but, bless God, He is giving us grace to live it and do personal work amongst comrade-soldiers. Hallelujah. God bless you.
R. Shaw, Captain.

September 21st.

My Dear Colonel—I am still alive, trusting you are well. I wrote you the other day by picture post-card, but I hear they have all torn up. We were not allowed to name the place where we are, on account of anything happening, such as the mail coming into the hands of the enemy. Captain Marsh and myself are still together. It is very hard to get by you some one you know, and who has the love of God in his heart as well. We are still in the place where we landed, and are standing by for orders at present. We are not near the firing line by a long way.

Last night the Bishop of the Church of England held a voluntary service. When he got to the front he was privileged to continue. We had a good time, and felt God was near us. The sin around us is awful, but, bless God, He is able to keep us. We are still in the place where we landed, and are standing by for orders at present. We are not near the firing line by a long way.

R. Shaw, Captain.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

On Drying Apples.

Little current, Ont.
Having read your instructions re drying apples, and being a retired farmer's wife, I would like to tell you of my way of making dried apples. This method is used by a great many, as being much surer and a far more cleanly way of drying dried apples than stringing them. If the apples are dried too slowly when on strings, they are apt to decay at the string unless moved on the string occasionally.

Take four slices of wood, about an inch square, and make each fit the stove oven. Put two inches across, one at each corner of rack to keep it up from oven bottom and to allow air to pass underneath the rack. Across the rack put narrow strips of wood about two inches apart. Then stretch tightly a piece of coarse cloth over the rack, and fasten securely.

Peel, quarter, and core the apples (if very large, cut in eighths), spread on rack, and place in oven. With a moderate fire they will be ready to put into paper bags in two days. Keep in a cool, dry place. With two racks one can dry them very fast indeed. Placing one rack under the other, turning the apples over at first are ready to put away. As working it, it is a very task. Very truly yours, A. F. ...

HELPING SAILORS AND UNFORTUNATES IN MONTEVIDEO AND BUENOS AYRES.

THE following article has been written by Captain V. Andersen, who went from Canada to South America two years ago. He is at first placed in charge of The Army's Sailors' Home at Montevideo, where he held domestic service. Later, he was transferred to Buenos Ayres, and had charge of the Municipal Shelter during the absence of Staff-Captain Jaget at the International Congress.

His descriptions of a day's work at each of these places is very interesting, and gives us a glimpse at one phase of life in the Southern Continent. This is what he has to say about his work at Montevideo.

"Five o'clock in the morning! It is raining a little, and there is a fresh wind blowing, but, no matter, I get, for nine men have to be taken on board an English bark. The coffee is now ready to take the sailors, and on the way to the harbour we pick up the other missing man. He is lying in a drinking rack half-dressed and is already under the moon drink. But I place him on the wagon amongst the baggage, and soon we reach the harbour, and out we go for a fresh wind.

"The coffee is now ready to take the sailors, and on the way to the harbour we pick up the other missing man. He is lying in a drinking rack half-dressed and is already under the moon drink. But I place him on the wagon amongst the baggage, and soon we reach the harbour, and out we go for a fresh wind.

TEMPORAL AND SPIRITUAL.

After a morning prayer with the employees, I have to go to the market to get the produce and vegetables for the kitchen. This is my return to find that the Consul has called to require our assistance in going on board a steamer and taking a couple of friends ashore.

Off I go again, after a little lunch, on board the steamer. The crew are busy scrubbing the deck, the water running out of the portholes. As I pass up the ladder I see the water running out of the portholes.

I get my men on board with their baggage and the necessary papers from the mate. Coming down the ladder, however, the crew, having been delayed in their work, are getting busy again, the result being that the water coming down the ladder is receiving a nice shower bath, becoming wet through. Getting ashore, I bring my men to the Consul, and this brings us to nearly dinner-time. At twelve o'clock, about 1 p.m., in the dinner room to see the thirty-odd sailors getting their dinner.

consisting of good soup, steak, pudding, and coffee, with bread. After this, I attend to some office work, then inspect all the rooms, and see that the employees are doing their duty. That done, I go down to the sea and take a refreshing swim for half an hour.

A Norwegian sailing ship is due alongside in the afternoon, and I have to go aboard and distribute papers and tracts, giving the sailors cards with the address of the Home, and asking them to come down when they are paid off.

The day is now drawing to a close, and at 6 p.m. I have to be present to see the boarders get their supper. After that there are some new boarders just arrived to deal with, and I have to fix five men with clothing and the necessary things they need in order to take them on board an English steamer the next day. It is now about eight-thirty, and I am able to sit in my office and draw up plans for the next day's work.

At 10 p.m. I retire to my room, to go to sleep, thinking of the day's work. With the information of the sailors I find the house and the man. I get him out of bed—he is only half-awake—but he follows me down to the Sailors' Home.

IN BUENOS AYRES.

We commence our work very early at Buenos Ayres. The first get up at 4 a.m., in order to have their horses and carts ready for leaving the place at five o'clock. It is over an hour's drive from our Industrial Home to the city. In the city, and it is necessary to collect the paper from the big business houses before their employees arrive. There is a clause in the police regulations of this city that no cart in the public streets must load or unload after ten o'clock in the morning.

It is a rainy morning, and I decide to go with the first cart myself that the men may not think I am too hard on them by sending them out in such weather. But the times just now are very slack, and we have had very little paper to collect. It is, therefore, impossible to miss even one day's collection, so I proceed with the first cart in order that the men may see that I do not spare myself.

Paper collecting is a hustling sort of work. We go down into cellars, up the lifts in the different stores, sweeping the papers together, putting them in sacks, and dropping them down into the cart. The work goes on for three hours. Then we start for home with a big load of paper. It is nine-thirty before we reach the Asilo, where we are too late for breakfast, and this day we miss our daily Bible reading, which generally takes place at 8 a.m.

I have about fifty men sorting the papers and the necessary papers. I dispatch about 10,000 kilos each week. In addition to the sorting of paper, we also provide our different institutions with all the mattresses they require. We also have the painters in the Asilo who repair the broken furniture which we collect in the city, and when we have a quantity of furniture fixed up, we either sell it to the Asilo, or we give it out to auction. We also collect different kinds of metal, such as iron, brass, etc., and some men are kept employed sorting it.

In the case of the South African war, Canadians were granted the regular British pension, which was paid by the Imperial Government. In the present war Canada is assuming all obligations of pay, equipment, maintenance, and pension for the Canadian troops.

HELPING THE BELGIANS.

MANY schemes are being brought forward for helping the Belgians who have been driven from their homes. One proposal is that five hundred acres of land should be secured in Fife County, Ontario, and divided into ten-acre lots. This would provide for fifty settlers, and as the Belgians are splendid intensive farmers, no doubt they would make a good living off such a plot of land.

The establishment of a spinning factory near Quebec is another feasible scheme. A Belgian manufacturer, who owned a factory near Ghent, which was destroyed by the Germans, has requested a grant of land on which to erect a new factory. Fifteen hundred hands would be employed, selected from among Belgian refugees. Dr. Pelletier, Agent-General for the Province of Quebec, is submitting the proposition to the Government.

MARSHMALLOWS HARMLESS

OWING to complaints that various sweets in which whiteness is desired, particularly marshmallows, frequently contained notable quantities of sulphurous acid and sulphites, an investigation was undertaken by the Government. Ninety-three samples were purchased in various cities, and chemical tests were made.

The results showed that the complaints were unfounded. Fifty-one samples were found to be entirely free from sulphurous acid, and twenty others yielded traces only. The remaining samples contained distinct amounts of the acid, but not sufficient to be in any way harmful. So those with a sweet tooth can go on eating marshmallows without fear of being poisoned.

BAD HABITS MAKE POOR SOLDIERS.

CIGARETTE-SMOKING and drinking are sufficient causes to prevent men becoming soldiers in the Canadian forces. The officer commanding at London, Ont. recently ordered the rejection of all recruits who got intoxicated. It is said that the men who have been previously duly accepted were greatly disappointed at losing all possibility of going to the front, but the commanding officer was firm.

It is also stated that a great many more Canadians would have gone with the first contingent had not they been physically unfit, the defect being due to cigarette-smoking. The only thing for young men to do, therefore, if they wish to serve their country is to cut out the booze and baccy.

OBJECT TO "WET" CANTEN.

VARIOUS organizations throughout Canada are vigorously protesting against the authorization of "wet" canteens among the Canadian troops occupying on Salisbury Plain in England.

In a strong protest, sent by the Methodist Church to Premier Borden, it is pointed out that Russia has forbidden vodka and France absinthe, for the army. The Premier is asked to protest to the Home Government against the allowing of beer for the Canadians, in the face of the practice of the Canadian Militia Department and contrary to Canadian public opinion and the tacit understanding with Canadian Motherhood.

The Ontario Sunday School Association has also sent a telegram to Lord Kitchener on the subject.

THE CANADIAN MILITARY HOSPITAL.

A HANDSOME gift of clothing has been sent by Queen Mary to the Queen's Canadian Military Hospital at Shorncliffe. The hospital remains filled to its utmost limits.

A certain number of patients are convalescent, but the directors of the institution are in some difficulty for, if they discontinue to contribute some, they are liable to lose the War Office grant for the patients' maintenance. Many offers of such homes have been made, but so far there has been no general provision for the patients' maintenance.

EUROPE'S DAILY WAR BILL.

THE tremendous expenditures which the nations are called upon to meet daily are figured out as follows: Russia, $14,000,000; Germany, $2,225,000; France, $2,000,000; Britain, $5,000,000; Austria, $4,000,000; various, $3,000,000. Total, $40,225,000. The French appropriation is from official figures as announced by M. Ribot, Minister of Finance; the British estimate by the London "Statist"; the German total from "an authoritative source" in a Geneva paper, and the other sums from various conservative estimates which have appeared in one place or another. The item "various" represents the probable expense to which Serbia, Belgium, Turkey, and the neutral countries of Switzerland, Italy, Roumania, Greece, Holland, and Denmark have been put.

PRIVATE RELIEF FUNDS.

THE vast subscriptions being raised in England for war purposes have reached remarkable proportions. The National Relief Fund, known as the Prince of Wales' Fund, has reached a total of more than $2,000,000.

Part of this sum will be devoted to the relief of suffering caused by the war in Great Britain to soldiers' dependents, and through unemployment, and a liberal grant will be made for the relief of Belgian soldiers. The "Times" fund for sick and wounded already amounts to more than $2,000,000. Five hundred motor ambulances, for use in France, so far have been purchased with this money, while two hundred private cars have been donated for this work. All of this fund not expended for cars will be given to the Red Cross societies.

GENEROUS GIVERS.

QUEEN MARY'S FUND for providing work for women has reached nearly four hundred thousand dollars. The "Daily Telegraph" raised nearly two hundred thousand for the Belgians in shilling subscriptions in the few days since the fall of Antwerp, while the "Pall Mall Gazette" previously had turned over to the Belgian Minister in London $25,000. A fund for wounded and needy Indian soldiers, started by British people who formerly lived in India, now amounts to $275,000.

Princess Mary's appeal to purchase Christmas gifts for men at the front has yielded nearly $300,000, and the readers of the "Daily News" have sent in $5,000 for Christmas puddings.

Major Barrett, who has been assisting Brigadier Mary Murray in France, has now returned to International Headquarters, London.

ARMY SONGS.

COME, COMRADES DEAR.
Tunes.—Come, comrades dear, 136;
He lives, 138.
Come, comrades dear, who love the Lord
Who taste the sweets of Jesus' word,
In Jesus' ways go on;
Our troubles and our trials here
Will only make us richer there,
When we arrive at home.

We feel that Heaven is now begun;
It issues from the sparkling throne,
From Jesus' throne on high.
It comes in floods we can't contain,
We drink, and drink, and drink
again,
And yet we still are dry.

And when we come to dwell above,
And all surround the throne of love,
We'll drink a full supply;
Jesus will lead His Soldiers forth
(To living streams of richest worth
That never will run dry.

HE DIED FOR ME.

Tunes.—Ye banks and bracs, 121;
Moonmouth, 9; Song Book, 229.
'And can it be that I should gain
An interest in the Saviour's Blood?
Died He for me who caused His pain?
For me who Him to death pursued?
Amazing love! How can it be
That Thou, my God, shouldst die
for me?

Long my imprisoned spirit lay Fast bound in sin and nature's night;
Thine eye diffused a quickening ray;
I woke! the dungeon flamed with light!
My chains fell off, my heart was free,
I rose, went forth, and followed
Thee.

No condemnation now I dread;
Jesus, and all in Him, is mine!
Alive in Him, my living Head,
And clothed in righteousness
Divine,
Behold, I approach the eternal
throne,
And claim the crown, through
Christ my own.

HE CALLED ME OUT.

Tune.—He called me out, 195.
Long in darkness and doubt did I wander from God,
Just the slave of myself and of sin,
And I saw not the light at the end of the road,
Nor the danger I daily was in.

Chorus.

He called me out of darkness into
light,
Oh, the world of the future was
rought to my heart,
And the claims of my God I
ignored;
While in no life but this had my soul
any part,
Till I knelt at the feet of my Lord.

When I fully surrendered my life and my all
To my Saviour, His ever to be,
On my life all the light of His Spirit
did fall,
And the next world I plainly could see.
